either the Kompong Phluk or Chong Kneas communities living on the water.

Made up from ethnic Vietnamese, Khmer, and Cham, who were stripped of their Cambodian identity under the Khmer Rouge regime, they have since settled and have made fishing their bread and butter. Living in stilt houses that sit at least 6 metres above water, explore the communities' ecosystem with its connecting platforms where villagers grow their own vegetables, run markets, and travel by boat between houses. Glide on the lake in a wooden canoe beneath the lush green canopies surrounded by the sounds of birds and other wildlife and get a glimpse of how living on the water has changed the lives of these locals.

By experiencing its lesser-known heritage sites and cultural activities, guests will have the chance to explore spots beyond the popular temples of Angkor Wat. Guests will travel by oxcart from the Knapor Community to a hidden jungle temple taken over by nature but not forgotten by its people. Explore the ancient Khmer ruins away from the crowds of Angkor Wat and learn about the history of the Khmer civilization. Guests are also invited to participate in a traditional Khmer monk blessing in a local Buddhist temple and observe the sacred rituals that are still practised today.

Guests can also get a taste of local, Khmer-style cuisine with The Aviary Escape Package. Share a Khmer-style meal created from local produce and spiced to delight the senses with the Knapor Community and enjoy local dishes for lunch. Upon returning to the hotel, guests can overlook the lively city streets from The Aviary's rooftop at The Glide Bar and enjoy a 4-course set dinner for two and two complimentary cocktails.

The Aviary Hotel's The Aviary Escape package is priced at US$695 during high season and includes a 3-night stay for two guests with WiFi access, daily breakfast, and roundtrip airport transfers at the hotel.
